Nominations by the President.—WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26.—The President, at a public session of the Senate, announced the following nominations: Frank Nicholson of Missouri, to be assayer of the mint; and John H. Johnson, to be prepared to be locked out and spend the afternoon as there was no kind of demonstration, and the men were as quiet and peaceable as if nothing was the matter. Just before the strike broke out on Monday, they called their men together. They were instructed to go to the streets and to the houses of Ministers of the Gospel.

Financial Discussion.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—At the close of the morning business, Senator Farwell delivered a speech in favor of the maintenance of the National Banking Act. He said that the act was a masterpiece of legislation, and would not and never will hereafter submit to anything of a dictatorial nature. The church in this city, Lia Läk Ong, a Chinese Christian, and a member of the conference, addressed the meeting and said that he was glad to see the church in the observatory and when the last of the year, he would be in San Francisco to see the observatory. He was considerably astonished to get his own message back from the observatory.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—At a special meeting of the River and Harbor Committee this morning, the ways and means of the effort to improve the navigation of the Mississippi and the same number of hours' work and employment of the men were discussed. It was stated that the men had been working under former times when the time came. The men passed quietly to the end of the day.

A New National Bank.
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—The Comptroller of the Currency has authorized the Ellensburgh National Bank of Ellensburgh, N. Y., to pay, to receive and to deposit money and to carry on the usual business of a national bank. At noon-time, according to agreement, the bank was closed and business for the time is suspended.

The indications for twenty-four hours commencing at 3 p. m. to-day for Missouri are: Warmer, fair weather, followed by threatening weather, with rain; fresh to brisk southerly winds, becoming variable.

Our removal to new quarters is in accord with our policy. It brings us nearer to the public.

Our hearty thanks are returned for the countless compliments and congratulations received from all sides.

The advertising headquarters of St. Louis is now established at No. 513 Olive street, in the new and elegant counting-room of the POST-DISPATCH.

The three morning papers in the order of size yesterday were the Post-Dispatch with 32 pages, the Globe-Democrat with 32 pages and the Republic with 24 pages.

The Senate has reported adversely on the bill to increase the pay of the army chaplains, regardless of the fact that such a bill would be a slight contribution to the great idea of reducing the surplus.

RECORDED WILLIAMS deserves the thanks of the community for the fight he made against false vaccination, but he is making a mistake in refusing to allow the WATER COMMISSIONER HOLMAN is young in office, but old in municipal service. He has always enjoyed a good reputation, and he cannot afford to make himself responsible for such a blunder as failing to enforce a city contract.

THE people of St. Louis are looking with some interest for the official list of inspectors of street sprinkling, to see whether these appointments are made for the purpose of securing efficient sprinkling of the streets or for the purpose of securing votes at the primaries.

An obscurely worded paragraph in one of the morning papers seems to hint at a desire to question the accuracy of our statements of circulation. We are prepared to show that the POST-DISPATCH circulates, delivers, sells and gets paid for a larger number of papers in the city of St. Louis every week than both the morning papers put together.

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the announcement that Chief Justice McGRATH has become proprietor of the Sedalia Democrat comes the unsolicited favor of a copy of the Missouri State Almanac. This evidence of the purpose of Editor McGRATH of Sedalia to cultivate the amenities of journalism is most highly to be commended, and we hold it up as a shining example to our contemporaries in St. Louis.

THE organs of machine politics and protected trusts had better let JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL alone. The mugwump who represents has never failed to win ultimately every battle it ever engaged in from the day when it first laid its infant hand on the Slave Power till now. While he lives no other cause will be commended to the popular heart with more captivating power of reason and rhetoric. It is pitiful to see his critics striking blind after they have been skinned so neatly and completely.

At the recent annual meeting of the Ohio Gas-Light Association the President said one-half of all the gas product in Ohio "is now being sold at $15, or even less, per 1,000 feet," and he added that $15 pays better than the far higher prices obtained a few years ago. He might have added that instead of consuming a ton of coal in producing 8,000 feet of gas, only five gallons of crude petroleum, costing but a few cents, are required now for carburetting 1,000 feet of the cheap gas produced by passing superheated steam over hot coal.

The German Government has legislated against the Polish language in the Polish provinces and against French in Alsace-Lorraine. The North German Gazette says the Polish ladies whose recent addresses to the Empress in French constituted a gross impropriety, they being perfect mistresses of German. Not being Reichslanders they were as free as Berlinites to speak French, and not being permitted to address the Empress in Polish they just wouldn't do it in German. From this it would seem that ungracious of tongue is one of the foibles of the sex in Poland.

The Glass Trust enjoys a protection of 55 per cent, adjusted to guarantee a profit of 35 per cent when its whole expense for labor is only 45 per cent of the entire cost of the product. Yet 2,600 members of the Flint-Glass Workers' Union are idle and the Flint-glass manufacturers' establishments in the Pittsburgh district are closed, because the men are convinced that they are not getting their fair share of the protection afforded by the tariff. The trust can fix prices so as to cover the losses by all such interruptions of business, but there is no provision in the tariff to feed unemployed men or to compensate them for the wages they lose by unsuccessful strikes or by lockouts.

THE men who led the filibustering against the direct tax bill are accused of being animated by sectional enmity to the loyal States. The same men, however, were foremost among the opponents of the Blair bill, which offered a big grab to the rebel States. BRECKINRIDGE of Kentucky, for instance, represents a State which would have come in for a huge slice of the direct tax bill. Moreover, they all knew that the bill they were fighting would pave the way for the cotton tax refunding scheme, and the North can hardly afford to admit that the refusal of such bribes and opposition to such grabs must necessarily proceed from "enmity to the loyal States."

THE Francis delegate boom is arranged to start from Fayette on the 28th with all the prestige of "grand old Howard County" endorsement. The County Committee, ignoring the methods recommended by the State Committee, has called a mass-meeting at the county seat on that date to select delegates to all of the Democratic State Conventions. This puts the selections mainly in the hands of the one township of Howard, in which the Francis boom has been most carefully nursed. The Francis and Perry family connections can induce a good many voters to ride in many miles from the distant townships, while the great mass of voters prefer to stay at home in the busy time of getting ready for corn-planting. City politicians can devise some neat little arrangements for producing results in rural politics.

The cable correspondents see regular funnel-shaped political cyclones forming both in Germany and France. In the former they see BISMARCK convulsing Germany with a struggle between military absolutism and constitutional monarchy, and in France BOULANGER inaugurating a revolution for the overthrow of Parliamentary government and the inauguration of Caesarism. But why should the election of BOULANGER as a rebuke to the Ferry crowd be so pregnant with explosive forces? He has never done anything to make him the military idol of the people, and never professed any but Republican principles. As for BISMARCK, it is not easy to see how he could make himself more absolute than he is, with the Crown Prince under his thumb, the dominant party and dominant classes at his back, and nobody to dissent from his measures but a dying Emperor.

ANOTHER RECORD BEATEN.
THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH yesterday morning, in addition to getting out a 36-page paper, which was, we believe, the largest newspaper ever published in St. Louis, beat the record in the volume of want and real estate advertisements. These advertisements occupied 57 columns of our paper yesterday, a greater amount than has ever been reached at any time by any newspaper in St. Louis.

This would be a great achievement for a paper six years old, for a paper which has been in existence barely six months—the first number of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH having appeared October 2, 1887—is marvellous. It shows the confidence of the public in the paper and it also shows that our circulation is such as to bring results.

ANTI-TRUST LAW.
Iowa leads off with a recently enacted law against trusts. Railroad corporations are expressly excepted from its operations on the ground that other laws for the prevention of pooling have been especially enacted for them. But the new statute forbids, under a penalty not exceeding $5,000 nor less than $500, any corporation other than railroad to "create, enter into or become a member of or party to any pool, trust, combination or confederation to regulate or fix the price of oil, coal, lumber, grain, flour, provisions or any other commodity whatever," or to "fix or limit the amount or quantity of any commodity to be mined, manufactured, produced or sold" in the State. The same statute imposes the same penalties on copartnerships or individuals for doing the same acts prohibited to corporations. On the trial of an indictment for conspiracy to defraud, as defined in the act, it makes all officers and agents of partnerships or corporations competent witnesses against the defendant, and provides that they shall be compelled to testify and to produce books and papers, and shall not be excused from answering questions that may criminate themselves, but provides also that this compulsory evidence shall not be used against a witness when put on trial himself. This law seems to be shaped for reaching the mark as far as State legislation can. Probably the worst effects of the trust business, however, are matters of interstate commerce and can be reached by Congressional legislation only.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.
Yesterday's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH consisted of 36 pages, and contained 57 columns of advertisements, including 57 columns of advertisements of Wants and Real Estate. This probably accounts for the following humorous effusion which we find in the editorial columns of the Globe-Democrat this morning:

The Wind Mill says its Sunday edition has a circulation of 30,000 copies. The Globe-Democrat will divide $100 between the two leading charities of this city if the Wind Mill will prove a bona-fide paid-for circulation of half that number—15,000—the actual figures, whatever they may be, to be verified under oath and published.

IS NOT BISMARCK setting a dangerous and contagious example to the Reichstag and people of Germany in presuming to set up his opinion against the will of his imperial master, the Emperor? The divine right of the sovereign to rule regardless of the nation's will and in opposition to the counsels of the people's representatives has always been BISMARCK's fundamental doctrine. In matters appertaining to the army and the royal family especially, he has heretofore denied the right of any subject to meddle. Now he, a subject and servant, presumes to forbid the marriage of the Emperor's daughter to the Prince selected for her by her mother and father. It is announced by his organs that his opposition to this marriage is unalterable, and unless his will prevails in the matter he will refuse to serve the sick Emperor any longer, and involve him in a harassing cabinet revolution on his very deathbed. When the old Emperor lived and BISMARCK's will was the Emperor's will, BISMARCK's views of divine right and royal prerogative were never subjected to the strain that was put upon them the moment a new Emperor ascended the throne with a tendency to look at things through other spectacles than BISMARCK's.

THE Scottish Home Rule Association makes out a strong case in favor of local self-government for Scotland in the course of a published address to the Scottish people. A bare statement of the fact that Scotland has but seventy-two of the 670 members of the House of Commons, and that nearly half of the seventy-two are either London barristers or other non-residents of Scotland, who take upon themselves the expense of representing Scottish constituencies for the sake of the professional or other business it brings them, would prepare an American mind for the conclusion that Scotland's local affairs are not attended to as they would be in a Parliament of her own.

With the Aid of Providence.
From the Globe-Democrat.
The Wind Mill yesterday celebrated itself to the extent of several pages on the occasion of its transfer to new quarters. The autobiography would have been just as good, we believe, if, in the record of achievement, there had been an admission that Divine Providence occasionally had something to do with the events of the world, and that the Wind Mill was not a wholly unaided instrumentality in achieving the progress of the human race. The Wind Mill, it seems to us, could afford to be just as generous to Providence, with out surrendering any of its own molian preeminence.

American Labor in Rhode Island.
From the San Francisco Alta (Dem.).
Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island still hopes that his State will go Republican in November. He says protection to American labor will secure this result, and adds "The French-Canadian, English and Irish are all with us on that issue." From this it would seem that American labor has been protected out of Rhode Island entirely, and the foreign labor which has taken its place is relied on for Republican success.

DOINGS IN THE COURTS.

A CASE OF JUDGMENT-CREDITOR AGAINST STOCKHOLDER SQUARELY DECIDED.

Judge Valliant Interprets the Law in a Case Arising From the Butchers & Drovers' Bank Failure—Trial of the Stevenson Claimed for Attorney's Fee in the Rosenthal Attachments—A Damage Suit for $200,000—A Mental Inquiry in the Probate Court—The Sanford Will.

Judge Valliant rendered an interesting decision to-day in the Coquard vs. Prendergast case. This was a motion under section 785 Revised Statutes by Mr. Coquard, a judgment creditor of the Butchers & Drovers' Bank, for execution against Mr. Prendergast, who, at the time of the failure of the bank was a stockholder holding unpaid stock on which he owed $500. Since the failure he purchased the scrip, sued upon it, and obtained judgment against the bank for $444. It was unpaid and he contended that he was entitled to the unpaid stock on the stock. The testimony showed that he paid only $135 for the scrip and that he bought it for the purpose of offsetting the stock liability. Mr. Coquard's judgment against the bank was also founded on scrip purchased after the failure of the bank. Mr. Coquard was not a stockholder.

The question presented was whether Mr. Prendergast could offset his judgment against his stock liability to the full amount. Mr. Coquard took the position that Mr. Prendergast was entitled to offset to the extent of $135, the amount paid for the scrip, but not further. The court, on the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Jerns against the City of St. Louis, decided in favor of Mr. Prendergast, and the motion for execution was denied. The liability of a stockholder is a trust fund left in his hands by the corporation subject to the demands of its creditors. There is no common law process that can reach it. It is the right of a creditor to reach the fund only by a legal remedy, resembling in form and character more the process of garnishment than execution than any other familiar writ. In the case of Jerns vs. the City of St. Louis, the Supreme Court held that the stock liability of a stockholder is only to the extent of the money paid by him for his judgment against the corporation, and that fact was the controlling feature of the case.

A stockholder bears no such fiduciary relation to the corporation, and he is as free to dispose of his property as he is to sue. When called into a court of equity at the suit of a creditor he must pay up his stock liability dollar for dollar, and he may then prove up his claim as a creditor along with the other creditors of the corporation. The equities of the parties cannot be reached by a proceeding by a creditor against the stockholder. The Supreme Court in the case of Jerns vs. the City of St. Louis held that the stockholder being himself a creditor of the corporation, he is entitled to set off his claim against the corporation against the stock liability he owes to the corporation. If the defendant has a legal debt against the corporation it may be offset in this kind of proceeding, but the stock liability must be reached in another way.

An Attorney's Claim.
A jury was called to-day in Judge Valliant's court to try the case of J. C. H. Stevenson, attorney, against Joseph Specht and the Fifth National Bank Receiver. Mr. Stevenson was the first attorney employed by Specht to bring the attachment suit in his name against Isaac B. Rosenthal & Co. to recover $200,000 on the basis of a judgment rendered by the Fifth National Bank. A similar suit was also entered at the same time against the Rosenthal firm in the name of A. Wolf. Mr. Wolf was the receiver of the Fifth National Bank, and the suit was for $200,000 against Mr. Specht and the Fifth National Bank. The claim originally was 10 per cent.

Alleged to Be of Unsound Mind.
A jury was called to-day to determine the mental condition of Heinrich Klosemeyer. His relatives declare that he is of unsound mind and incapable of managing his affairs. From the testimony of the jury it appeared that he has been wandering ever since he left the army, and at times he becomes very violent, throwing stones and breaking windows. He was present in court and was permitted to question the witnesses, and to ask questions of the jury. He was allowed to see his wife and children, and to see his property. He was allowed to see his property, and to see his property.

Damages for Prosecution.
Leon Scherlitzner by next friend against Dennis A. Byrne is the title of a damage suit filed to-day in the Circuit Court. The plaintiff asks for $200,000 damages and alleges that he was wrongfully charged with the embezzlement of $200,000 from the Fifth National Bank. He was arrested and the Court of Criminal Justice ordered a hearing to be held to determine if the charges were true. The charges were found to be true, and the plaintiff was ordered to pay the damages.

The Sanford Will Probated.
The will of Jane R. Sanford was admitted to probate to-day. The property is left to the probate, Mary W. Avis, and her husband, Wm. H. Avis, is appointed executor without bond. The granddaughters, Jane and Elizabeth Sanford, have been provided for by the will of their father, receive but $1 each.

The Harmonic Case Dismissed.
The case of the State at relation of Glaser against Harmonic was dismissed to-day. Judge Lubke's court at the costs of the defendants. This was the Harmonic Club Building Company's controversy involving the seat of Jacob Furtch at the Directors' Board, he having been elected by a majority of the Board to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of M. A. Rosenthal.

To Recover Insurance.
A suit was filed in the Circuit Court to-day by Louis F. Amphian against the North British Mercantile Insurance Company to recover $1,600, the amount of insurance upon property on Grand avenue and Shenandoah street destroyed by fire. A suit was also filed against Citizens' Insurance Company to recover $800 on the same account.

Bailey vs. Singer.
In the suit of Chas. H. Bailey vs. Singer Manufacturing Company, the plaintiff remitted $1,708.49 of the verdict to-day, and the judgment stands for $2,386.51. This was in accordance with the views expressed by Judge Dillon.

Liability for a Nuisance.
Judge Valliant rendered a decision to-day concerning liability for a nuisance in the case of Manly vs. St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad Company. The case was brought by the Manly family, who were annoyed by the noise and vibration of the railroad tracks in their neighborhood. The court decided that the railroad company was liable for the nuisance, and ordered them to pay damages.

"CATCH-PENNY" SOAPS.

Anything that is the best of its kind is sure to be imitated, and the fact that an article is counterfeited, is the best possible evidence of its value. There are scores of imitations of the Ivory Soap, which grocers are persuaded to buy because they pay more profit than the "Ivory" will. On account of this extra profit, the grocer represents them to be "just as good as the Ivory;" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.
